The Costs of Aging

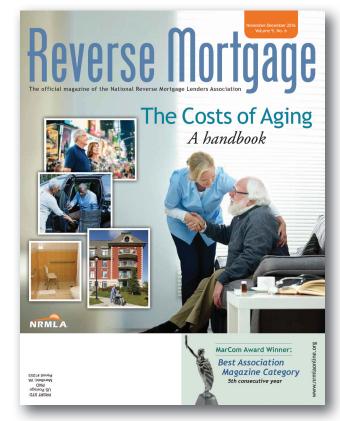

Through our relationships with various professional organizations, NRMLA's editorial team compiled a catalogue of costs that will help your clients plan for later life and help you explain what they may need, among them housing, health and wellness, personal financial, transportation and social engagement.

Every loan officer should have this resource sitting on their desks ready to hand out to potential reverse mortgage clients.

We hope that having all this information at one's fingertips will help you and your prospective clients make choices, plan retirement and ease some of the burden of affording later life.
