

Shari G. Kleiner

Shari Kleiner has been actively practicing employment law since 2001. Shari specializes in common sense approaches to employment relationships that achieve maximum efficiencies for employers and employees. She provides a complete array of employment law services from advice work to litigation, and everything in between.

Using the broad skill set she acquired while practicing at a large firm for more than eight years, Shari puts her client's needs first. In 2010, Shari founded Kleiner Legal, based in Boston, focusing exclusively on helping employers problem-solve difficult situations and navigate complex legal schemes and laws to create environments that bring out the best in their employees, lower turnover, and increase productivity. While at KleinerLegal, Shari focused on smaller, start-up employers, keeping many of her clients as they became large employers.

In 2017, after moving with her family to the Washington, D.C. area, Shari founded Kleiner Feldman Plotkin, PLLC, where she continues to provide her tailored employment legal advice and representation to employers in need of practical, sophisticated solutions, with a focus on associations and non-profits, in addition to start-ups.

In addition to all aspects of traditional employment law, and employment litigation, Shari also is experienced in immigration law, Trusts and Estates and Guardianship law. A graduate (cum laude) of Georgetown University Law Center, she is a member of the D.C. Superior Court Fiduciary Panel and is active in various legal and social justice organizations.
